

The Geological Society

The Geological Society of London was founded in 1807. It is the UK national society for geoscience, and the longest established geological society in the world.

As a learned society and professional body, the Geological Society provides a wide range of professional and scientific support to over 12 000 Fellows (FGS), about 2000 of whom live overseas. Fellowship of the Society is open to those holding a recognized honours degree in geology or a cognate subject, or not less than six years relevant experience in geology or a cognate subject. The Society is the chartering authority able to award Chartered Geologist (CGeol) status to appropriately qualified Fellows with six years relevant postgraduate experience in the practice of geology. The Society also awards the title of Chartered Scientist (CSI). Candidate Fellowship is available to those who do not yet qualify for Fellowship (e.g. students).

Associate Editors

Paola Adamo,
Naples University Federico II, Italy

Nelson Belzile,
Laurentian University, Canada

Rob Bowell,
SRK Consulting (UK) Ltd, UK

Antonella Bucciatti,
University of Florence, Italy

Patrice de Caritat,
Geoscience Australia, Australia

Alecos Demetriades,
Institute of Geology and Mineral
Exploration, Greece

David Fowle,
University of Kansas, USA

Michael Gazley,
CSIRO, Australia

Eric Grunsky,
University of Waterloo, Canada

Bruno Lemiere,
BRGM, France

Annamarie Lima,
University of Naples Federico II, Italy

Annika Parviainen,
University of Granada, Spain

Martiya Sadeghi,
Geological Survey of Sweden, Uppsala

Peter Simpson,
Imperial College London, UK

Cliff Stanley,
Acadia University, Canada

Jerzy Weber,
Institute of Soil Science and
Environmental Protection, Poland

Renguang Zuo,
China University of Geosciences,
China

Ni Pei,
Nanjing University, China

Editorial Board

Andy Bajc,
Ontario Geological Survey, Canada

Neil Breward,
2 Intake Road, UK

Mark Cave,
British Geological Survey, UK

Qiuming Cheng,
York University, Canada

David Cohen,
University of New South Wales

Colin Dunn,
Sidney, BC, Canada

David Fey,
US Geological Survey, Denver, USA

Robert Garrett,
Geological Survey of Canada, Canada

David Gray,
CSIRO, Australia

Reid Keays,
Monash University, Melbourne,
Australia

Karen Kelley,
US Geological Survey, USA

Bernd Lottermoser,
RWTH Aachen University

Germano Melo Jr.,
Federal University at Rio Grande do
Norte State, Brazil

Charles Moon,
University of Exeter, UK

Ryan Noble,
CSIRO, Australia

Gloria Prieto,
Servicio Geológico Colombiano,
Colombia

Andrew Rate,
University of Western Australia,
Australia

Pertti Sarala,
Geological Survey of Finland,
Finland

Lisa Stillings,
US Geological Survey, USA

Chris Weisener,
University of Windsor, Canada

Association of Applied Geochemists

The Association of Applied Geochemists is an international organization specializing in the field of exploration and applied geochemistry. Their objectives are to promote the application of geochemistry in relation to exploration and the environment, to foster communication, fellowship and co-operation between those working in, studying or who have an interest in these fields. The AAG newsletter is EXPLORE (quarterly). AAG offers three types of membership: Fellow (voting members); Member (non-voting members); and Student. All three receive the journal Geochemistry: Exploration, Environment, Analysis and the EXPLORE newsletter as part of their membership. Prospective members can obtain membership application forms from the Web Site (<http://www.appliedgeochemists.org>) or from Al Arseneault at the AAG Business Office, P.O. Box 26099, 72 Robertson Rd, Nepean, ON, Canada K2H 9R0. Tel: 613-828-0199; Fax: 613-828-9288; E-mail: office@appliedgeochemists.org. Annual dues are $100.00. Student members pay annual dues of $10.00. The Business Office should be notified of any change of address.

The Society has its own Publishing House in Bath, UK. It publishes the Society's international journals, special publications, books and maps and is the European distributor for publications of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists (AAPG) and the Society for Sedimentary Geology (SEPM). Fellows are entitled to significant discounts on journals, books and special publications. The Society has an online bookshop (<http://www.geolsoc.org.uk/bookshop>) where books can be purchased online using credit and debit cards.

Further information about the Society and Membership may be obtained from the Geological Society, Burlington House, Piccadilly, London W1J 0BG (email: enquiries@geolsoc.org.uk; tel: +44(0)207 434 9944). Website: <http://www.geolsoc.org.uk>

The Society is a Registered Charity, number 210161

Submission procedure: Manuscripts should be prepared as outlined here: https://www.geolsoc.org.uk/geea_authorinfo
All submissions to the journal should be made online via www.editorialmanager.com/geochem

Typeset by Nova Techset Private Limited, Bengaluru and Chennai, India. Printed in Great Britain by Henry Ling Limited, at the Dorset Press, Dorchester, Dorset, DT1 1HD